

More Data

Good evening.

It is no surprise that we wish you talk to you again through this channel. We have done so before and know there will be response to what we have to say even if you don't like it or agree with it. It is not our job to 'make things fit' as it were; we are here to tell you what we know from the things that have happened to us since we departed the world in which you live. So many people think the earth life is all there is and ridicule people who think otherwise but, as time goes by, they are becoming the minority as the idea that life goes on becomes better understood. Valiant writers are collecting information from people who have made little trips to the 'other side' as you like to call it, but, from where we are there is only one side; this will become clearer when it is seen that life exists in many dimensions and yours is not the only one.

Communication is important as we all need to share what we know and to pass on our ideas; nothing would progress if ideas could not be transferred from one person to another. There is a whole industry of putting ideas on paper, as in the old days, while the designer of today will be working in the abstract world of CAD and may be exchanging his work with colleagues anywhere on the planet. You could say the limit is the speed of light and how busy your communication systems are, which is why many people prefer to work in the evening but, as evening moves round the world as the earth rotates, so even working when others have gone home does not mean your colleagues in other places are not enduring their busy periods. What is needed is more capacity, wider, faster roads and railways; more fibre optic cables from place to place. Faster and faster processing power, more and more data storage. Look at what little box of electronics, called a Smartphone, has done for you. Unfortunately, the disadvantages can be as many as the benefits; people get 'glued to their screen' and cease communication with the person next to them. A whole family looking at their 'phones is quite a common sight. We don't talk anymore says the song.

From where we are all this is slow stuff. Do you wish to speak directly to a person face to face but that person is six thousand miles away and may even be asleep? One thing to remember about life 'in the Spirit', as you call it, is we do not sleep. Once we have let the threads of earth dissolve away and had our final sleep to remove the last residues of earthly thinking we never sleep again. Also there is no day or night so we can't work in the evening as there is no such thing. We don't need fibre optic cables as the means of communication that we use is simply thought; we think we would like to be with a person and that concentrated thought is enough to take us to that person wherever they may be. It is possible to put up a 'do not disturb' sign and you get the feeling the person you would like to see is busy and does not wish to be interrupted. We are respectful of such things at all times. It is a bit like knocking on a person's office door and waiting for a 'come in' before entering. We also use the text or voice message without going to visit a person. (A ray of light flashed from the throat chakra of a lady standing on the shore; its destination being a person on a ship just visible in the far distance. – Books of the Rev Vale Owen)

There is also the thought of 'belonging.' Kevin, a boy of eleven, who spoke to friends on earth was heard to mutter 'they always know where I am.' He was referring to his teachers and those who took care of him. We all have teachers and carers so nobody can get 'lost'; it is always known where you are. Indeed you cannot hide so there is no point in trying. You cannot tell lies either so get that idea out of your head. You have to understand that the driving force behind everything is Love; we don't mean that sloppy emotional stuff but a Love which endures all things. If you practice doing things with 'love in your heart' you will fit in here very nicely.

We have talked about communication on the earth but there is also communication from us here to you there. Why do two people get the same idea about the same time? It is us trying to get that idea across and we need to find suitable recipients and we explore many avenues looking for suitable minds to implant an idea in. Bit like planting vegetables; some will do well and others will go nowhere. We cannot spend time digging up the land and putting down fertiliser, as you do, we have to find minds that will accept the ideas we try to put across. There are many people working here carrying on the work that they loved on the earth. There will come a time when they will move on to higher things, which would not be understood on the earth. They move on when they feel they have done their bit for the world of man. Some are very disappointed with what happened to the inventions they thought up and what they human race used them for. Assistance will be given from our side to a surgeon doing an operation. Just because you have 'died' does not mean you have lost your skill and interest in a colleges work. He will try to give ideas as his understanding of the operation is not limited to x-rays and bone scans. Detectives in the police force would be well advised to train their psychic faculties and learn to listen to what we say.

It was my imagination you say; you imagined it you are told. How many stories are there of children who speak about something they could never know. In days gone by such abilities were snuffed out by terrified, ignorant parents. The revolution in that is enormous and very encouraging for us; gifted people are not being stifled any more; the gift is allowed to flourish.

Where this came from I don't know but it is interesting and the communicator knows what is going on in the world. Well worth reading – and passing on. J.H.H.